Beltsville, MD – November 26, 2019 – Alertus Technologies, a market leader in unified mass notification, is pleased to announce that American Security Today named it the Platinum Award Winner for 2019 Best Mass Notification System-Application.

The ASTORS program is a preeminent U.S. Homeland Security Awards Program that honors the most cutting edge government and vendor solutions for their dedication to improving national safety. Each year, ASTORS award winners deliver enhanced value, benefit, and intelligence to end-users in a variety of government, homeland security, and public safety vertical markets.

Alertus was recognized for its Alertus Emergency Mass Notification System, a facility-based, mass notification and communications solution that allows organizations to send critical information to all integrated alerting endpoints. The Alertus System was specifically designed to simplify mass notification and accommodate a large footprint or loud environments.

In addition to K–12 schools, colleges and universities, corporations, and medical centers, Alertus proudly supports a diverse group of federal and military facilities, both nationally and internationally. Most recently, the Alertus System deployed at the Washington D.C. Navy Yard—a testament to Alertus’ commitment to integrating with a broad range of notification and communication systems and providing its customers with comprehensive, reliable emergency notification coverage.
